The Cheaper Cuts of Beef.

lem if American housewives knew how to cook the cheaper cuts of meat," said one of the most prominent cattle raisers in the west. "These cheaper cuts are excellent when properly cooked, but the average housekeeper seems to think that the only piece of beef worth while is a porterhouse steak.

"But people who know the flavor and nutritious qualities of the cheaper cuts often prefer them to the expensive cuts. When I look at a nice fat steer on the range and think of how 30 per cent. of the animal is virtually wasted it makes me lose patience.

"The solution of the beef problem is not for us cattlemen to raise more animals, but to raise finer ones and then to have the public educated to a more economical use of the supply. It is a fit subject for teaching in the domestic science branches of the public schools, for in it its the solution of one of the greatest fo d pre' lems the American people must face."—Denver Correspondence N. The crowd that witnessed the game in the Y. M. C. During the first half the playing was very fast and pretty clean aside from the fact that both teams repeatedly had two men on the ball. Killingly was completely outclassed from whistle-to whistle and all of the Windham players covered in grand style most of the time. They showed a great deal more life and ginger than at any time this season and the possibilities for a good outfit by midseason are very bright. Jordan was the most conspicyous man on the floor and has at last woke up. His play, all around gener-ally, was the best that he has ever displayed on the local floor and his

Windham high completely surprised her most ardent admirers Wednesday afternoon when her basketball team soundly trounced the team from Killingly high school of Danielson, of which so much was expected, and almost succeeded in shutting out the visitors without a goal from the field in either half, they just managing to set a lone one in each.

quite well for one of her years, but Tuesday morning she was stricken with an attack of heart trouble and this, with a complication of kidney troubles caused her death.

Deceased was 70 years old and a native of Castle Island, County Kerry, Ireland. At the age of thirteen she came to this country and located in Willimantic, where she had lived ever since. She was the widow of Michael Casey, who died about four years since. She was the mother of a large family of children, Frank, George, Dennis, Henry, Mary and Rose, all having died when young men and women. There survive three, Julia, William and Flora Casey. The last two conduct a grocery store on Jackson street, this city.

During her long residence here deceased was held in high regard by all who knew her. In her death the city loses one of the oldest Irish residents, one who came here in the early days of the borough and materially prospered with the steady growth of the community. Deceased was a sister of the late Michael Nelligan, a well-known resident of the city for years.

Miss Elizabeth Dungan. Gardiner Class Organized.

Tuesday evening the young ladies of the Methodist church in Miss Gardiner's class met at the parsonage and organized the Gardiner class. The following officers and committees were elected: Teacher, Mrs. A. Gardiner; assistant teacher, Mrs. Sarah A. Jeffers; president, Mrs. Agnes McArthur; vice president, Mrs. Georgia Walpole; secretary, Miss Emily Anderson; treasurer, Miss Mary Tinker, Membership committee, the whole class; devotional committee, Mrs. Nellie Saunders, Miss Annie Robertson, Mrs. Mary A. Harris; social committee, Mrs. Fred Smith, Mrs. Larrow and Miss Jameson.

The class was named in honor of Miss Adaline A. Gardiner, who has been a faithful teacher for a long time. Cake and ice cream were served at the close of the meeting. Miss Elizabeth Dungan. Miss Elizabeth Dungan, aged 70, died at her home, 126 Union street, early Wednesday morning, following an illness of two weeks with pneu-monia, Miss Dungan was a native of Ohio, but came to Willimantic with Onio, but came to Willimantic with her sisters many years ago. One sister died last August. Miss Dungan was one of the oldest employes of the Holland Manufacturing company in point of service and was well liked by all. There survive a sister, Mrs. L. H. Cary of this city, and a niece, Miss Carrie Freeman, who teaches in East Orange, N. J.

Rev. O. W. Scott.

Rev. O. W. Scott. a former pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home in Fitchburg, Mass., Monday morning at 11.45 o'clock. The funeral will be held today with burial in Springfield, Mass. Deceased recently sustained a shock, but had also been afflicted with heart trouble for some little time. Rev. Mr. Scott was located in this city from 1893 to 1895 and went from here to Brockton. Mass., where he had charge of a church, and was later transferred to Chicopee, Mass. About five years ago he retired and had since made his home in Fitchburg, Mass., passing To Observe Ladies' Night. Ladies' night will be observed by the Men's class of the Baptist church, this evening. There will be an ad-dress by Rev. C. R. McNally of New London, and a social evening. The Awful Pall of the Arctic Night.

The Awful Pall of the Arctic Night.

Things are tending, either by accident or design, in a way so that Dr. Cook will be able soon to extricate himself from the painful predicament by the plea of mental irresponsibility. The reports of his nervous breakdawn, the absurd imagining of plots against him and his precious records, and his retirement to a place of rist and quiet to recuperate from the effects of worry and overwork are a natural or deliberate preparation of the popular mind for some such expectation of the explorer's unaccountable conduct. The theory that the Arctic life, if protracted, often upsets the mind is generally accepted, and any effect of the awful year that Dr. Cook must have spent in darkness and solitude after his return from wherever he went, that might appear, would be regarded as within the limits of reasonable consequence. Harry Whitney, the New Haven hunter, describes in the December Outlook these effects in an impressive paragraph, as follows:

"No words can adequately describe his home in Fitchburg, Mass., passing his time in writing for various journals connected with the Methodist church. He was forced to give up all work some three months ago on account of his falling health. There survive a widow and a number of children Invitations are being prepared for every graduate of Windham high school to come back and spend the day, December 23, Alumni day. Owing to the congested condition of the high school building the programme that is being arranged will be carried out in the Town hell

cember Outlook these effects in an impressive paragraph, as follows:

"No words can adequately describe the awful pall of the Arctic night; it is unreal and terrible. The continued darkness brings with it a fearful stillness, over which seems to brood impending doom—something intangible, indescribable, uncanny. Intense and severe as the cold may be, any active man can stand it without serious suffering, for that acts only on the physical being and can be guarded against, but the prolonged sunless night has a dire effect upon the mind, which only exercise and diversion can counteract."

unions either disbanded or amalgamated with other local organizations in the same locality, and comparative ly few unions were organized in that period.

There are 11,625 women members of trades unions in this state, and of this number, 3,893, or 28,48 per cent, are boot and shoe workers. But the cotton mill operatives form a close second with 3,457, or 24,16 per cent, The remaining 27,39 per cent, are divided among cigarmakers and strippers, garment workers, retail clerks, musiclans and actresses, hotel and restaurant employes, compositors, act."

ham High School Alumni association, and by Supt. F. W. Beede of New Haven, a former principal of the local school. The musical programme will include numbers by the Girls' Glee club of the school, a double quartette from the school and a trio from the Whoham high school orchestra.

At the close of the exercises in the afternoon a business session of the Alumni association will be held and the day's pleasures will be finished with a social and dance in the Town hall in the evening with music furnished by Helmold's orchestra.

Principal John J. Maddox will have the full details of the exercises for the day arranged soon. exercise and diversion can counteract."

This is enough to account for Dr.
